c. Abstract:

The Household Travel Survey encompassed a seven-year effort that produced a body of information on both work and non-work trips. Under the scope of the project, CATS surveyed the region on a county-by-county basis with Chicago Central Business District (CBD) and the remainder of Chicago being surveyed separately. Starting in 1988, nine separate surveys were planned and conducted over a period of four years. The remaining years of the effort were spent on preparing and packing the final data base for public distribution.

The survey featured a self-administered mail-back questionnaire. The questionnaire was designed in a manner to allow the results to be adjusted and factored with 1990 census. Specifically, the questionnaire collected two types of data: census variables such as the number of persons per household, age, vehicle availability, sex, employment status, occupation and income; and transportation related variables including trip origin and destination, trip purpose, travel time, mode of travel used, vehicle occupancy, and walking distance if transit modes were involved.
